Music helps the medicine go down

On a good day, Jim Summers can remember what his favorite television show is, how he takes his coffee or that he actually wears glasses to read the morning paper.

However, most days he remembers little at all – frustrated by a long battle with Alzheimer's disease and the complex routine of a life he doesn't recognize or understand.

Each day Jim's wife, Rose, patiently and lovingly assists him with the most fundamental and often personal of tasks.

From shaving his stubbly face with that fancy new electric razor he got for Father's Day, to slowly buttoning up the front of his cozy flannel shirt, Rose remains a steadfast and compassionate caregiver despite often feeling like a stranger.

On this particular day, Jim isn't doing so well. After a very long morning, he's escorted to the living room where he'll stare blankly at the television for a couple hours while Rose recovers from the A.M. grind. She's feeling a bit more exhausted than

VNHC celebrates National Nurses Week

Caring for the Community

On May 12, 2010, Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care celebrated National Nurses Week with a delicious buffet and reception at their Santa Barbara office.

The purpose of National Nurses Week is to raise awareness for the profession and to help educate the public about the vital role America's 3.1 million registered nurses play in meeting the health care needs of our community.

Compassion & Quality

“National Nurses Week is an opportunity to recognize and celebrate the outstanding nurses practicing at VNHC,” said Lynda Tanner, President and CEO of Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care.

“We are fortunate and grateful to have such an amazing nursing team. Not only do they provide highly skilled, quality care in a variety of settings, but work tirelessly to support and ensure the health and safety of our patient community.”

A Job Well Done

Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care is proud to recognize each of our 103 registered nurses for the compassion and commitment they provide to community residents throughout Santa Barbara County – seven days a week, 365 days a year. Thanks so much for all you do!

A Word From the President & CEO

Serving Santa Ynez and Lompoc Valleys

Lynda Tanner

In 2008, Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care (VNHC) opened a small office in Solvang. We started slowly, recruiting local staff and building our capacity so that we could offer all of our services – home health, hospice and personal care – to Santa Ynez and Lompoc Valleys. As word grew that we were in the Valley, referrals increased and I am very proud to say that we served over 300 patients and their families in 2009 through our Solvang office.

Charlotte Lindsey and Molly Dolle

In order to say thank you for the community's support and to meet some of our new neighbors, Molly Dolle graciously hosted a reception for VNHC in her Los Olivos home on June 19th. It was a perfect afternoon and I enjoyed meeting several Valley residents. The following weekend, on June 27th, our hospice department held their first Remembrance Ceremony in Solvang. This beautiful service which includes a ceremony of roses and a candle lighting is a great comfort to those who have lost a loved one.

We are honored to care for patients and their families in the Santa Ynez and Lompoc Valleys and look forward to more opportunities to serve this community.

What will be your legacy?

As a supporter of Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care, you've already demonstrated you care about our mission. But what happens to your support when you pass on? Why should you include a charitable gift in your will or trust?

- Remembering VNHC in your will or revocable trust will leave a legacy that ensures we will be able to continue our important work far into the future.
- There can be beneficial tax incentives for gifts to qualified charitable organizations, like VNHC, reducing estate tax penalties.
- You will be recognized as a member of our honorary Samaritan Society, or remain anonymous if you choose.
- You can amend anything you choose, such as beneficiaries and amounts. We won't receive the gift until after your death so you can always make changes.

How you include a gift in your will or revocable trust depends on what you want to accomplish and what you want to give to Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care.

Gifts can be unrestricted or designated for the benefit of a specific program, such as hospice. You may memorialize or honor a loved one with your gift, and even set up a named endowment fund. You may choose to specify a dollar amount, an item of property or a percentage of the residue from your estate.

If a gift through your will or living trust is of interest, contact Pat Snyder, Sr. Gift Planning Director, at (805) 690-6282 or email psnyder@vnhcsb.org. We can provide specific bequest language for you to share with your attorney.

Planning a vacation with your aging parents

Summer is finally here, a time when many of us take a much needed break from our daily routine to enjoy family, friends and the thrill of travel.

For adults taking care of their elderly parents, the thought of having to navigate “planes, trains and automobiles” with Mom and Dad may be a scary proposition. But with a little planning, traveling with aging parents can be a wonderful experience, providing cherished memories that will last a lifetime. Here are a few things you can do to ensure that you and your parents have a great vacation.

Plan ahead. Planning and confirming travel plans should start as early as possible prior to your travel date. For air and land transportation, look for the most direct and shortest travel times. Choose airline seats that are easily accessible. Request free wheelchair services at the airport to assist your parent(s) through security and to the gate, if needed. Reserve handicapped-accessible hotel rooms and cruise accommodations. Suggest your parents make copies of their driver's licenses, Medicare and insurance cards, prescription medication list, general medical information and a living will. They may want to place these documents in their carry-on luggage in case checked bags are misplaced. It's also important they obtain an ample supply of medication from their doctors to last for the whole trip.

Set the pace. As travel can often be tiring, avoid planning activities that may be too strenuous or require you and your parents to rush from one place to another. Get plenty of rest. Plan to have at least six to eight hours of sleep for you and your parents for each day of your vacation. Soaking tired legs in hot water before bed time can offer great relief if you've done a fair amount of walking during the day. Hotels and cruise ships typically have a jacuzzi or spa available for this.

Eat, drink and be healthy. Older adults don't typically eat heavy meals so plan for more frequent light and healthy meals that are low on salts, oil and sugars but high in fiber. Always have a sandwich or high fiber biscuits in your bag in case they get hungry and there isn't a snack bar in the vicinity. Make sure everyone drinks plenty of fluids to prevent dehydration, and try to stay cool to avoid heat related illness.

Pack a first aid kit. Your first aid travel pack should contain medication for fever, diarrhea and cold symptoms. It should also include a thermometer, tweezers, scissors, safety pins, adhesive bandages, sterile gauze, adhesive tape and antiseptic wipes. While this list is not exhaustive, the stocks in the travel pack should be enough to cater to most conditions that require general first aid assistance. Check the expiry date for those medications that you bring along to ensure that they are safe for consumption.

Traveling with your elderly parents can be a wonderful experience as long as you plan ahead and make sure their needs are met. Involve them in all the activities along the way and remember to have fun!

VNHC helps repair damaged Jesusita Trail to Inspiration Point

VNHC Staff at the Jesusita Trail

While most of the physical therapists, nurses and administrators from Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care had never held a McLeod or Pulaski before, they soon found themselves using these standard fire fighting tools to clear water bars, restore tread and fight back overgrown vegetation.

Under the supervision of a trained and authorized crew leader, the team had a great time and increased the safety and usability of this popular trail.

“The Front Country Trails are such an integral part of our lives in Santa Barbara, but we seldom consider what it takes to keep them safe and open” said Lynda Tanner, President and CEO of Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care.

“This sounded like the perfect opportunity to do something good for the community and to work together as a team. I have a new appreciation for our fire fighters.

We will definitely plan to do this again. It was hard work but great fun” “Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care is on the leading edge of a new trend in trail work volunteerism” according to Rebecca Mordini, Front Country Trail Coordinator.

“Hundreds of people got a taste of trail work by volunteering in the aftermath of the Jesusita fire last year. Now they are going back to their communities, employers, churches and social clubs to set up trail projects.”

The project was organized by Dave Everett, a physical therapist with VNHC, who has been organizing the Trail Work Happy Hour since 2009. Everett has been trained in project safety, erosion controls and maintenance guidelines and has been authorized by the Forest Service to lead projects with a single trailcrew.

The crew included Dave Everett, Erica Victor, Lauren Noggle, Bob Crumm, Mary Beth Noggle, Robert Flores, Lynda Tanner, Kathie Organ and Babetta Daddino.

Caregiving Tips for Boomers: 5 Ways to Help Your Elderly Parents Enjoy Summer

Avoid Dehydration

Offer fluids frequently throughout the day and incorporate them into meals and snacks. Soups, juice bars, cereal with milk, and fruit are sources of extra fluid.

Stay Cool

Stay indoors in an air-conditioned area or near a fan. Go somewhere you can get relief from the heat such as a library, theater or community area with air-conditioning.

Limit Activity

Avoid strenuous activity or over-exertion in the heat. Household chores such as laundry, cleaning and gardening should be put off until the weather cools.

Stay Out of the Sun

Avoid extended periods of sun exposure. If you must be in the sun, wear lightweight clothing, a hat, sunscreen and sunglasses. Bring an umbrella to create shade.

Have Fun

Summer can be a great time for indoor activities like reading, playing cards, boardgames, doing a puzzle or arts and crafts. Try finding things you can do together.

MISSION OF VISITING NURSE & HOSPICE CARE

To provide high quality, comprehensive home health, hospice and related services necessary to promote the health and well-being of all community residents, including those unable to pay.

SUPPORTING THE Community

Despite a challenging year, Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care continues to serve the community through subsidized care and special programs.

While VNHC provides benefits to the community in a variety of ways, the most significant is in our provision of subsidized care. Since our founding in 1908, we have maintained a strong commitment to our charitable mission ensuring that no one is turned away because of an inability to pay. In 2009, we provided over $1.1 million in subsidized care through our home health, hospice and personal care programs.

Additionally, VNHC holds several community education programs that provide important information around topics like caregiving and advanced directives. These programs draw a large segment of the population each year and provide resources that help patients and families to cope with serious illnesses.

2010 Mother's Day Luncheon

A time for honoring and remembering our mothers

Elizabeth Lattanzu, Rose Brock, Monica Petersen – three generations attend the luncheon

It was a perfect day as 300 VNHC supporters gathered at the Coral Casino for this year's Mother's Day Luncheon on May 7th. The sun was shining, the sky was crystal clear and a whale even made an appearance in the blue waters off the patio just as the event was starting.

Catherine Remak, from K-LITE radio, once again served as the Master of Ceremonies, welcoming everyone and recognizing the sponsors who make this event possible each year. Cheryl Donkin, a hospice chaplain, gave the invocation and Lynda Tanner, President & CEO, remarked that the only way to truly know all that Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care does, is by hearing from our patients and their families. With that introduction, we heard from three people about the care that they have received at the hands of the dedicated staff at VNHC.

Tom Thomas, Santa Barbara Bank & Trust, did a wonderful job representing Chris Toomey who was unable to be at the luncheon this year. Stay tuned, though, as Chris will be joining us next year to remember his mother!

Event co-chairs Pamela Bouer and Monica Petersen, along with their outstanding committee, made certain that everyone had a lovely time and left with a photo memento of this very special luncheon.

Honored Mother, Regina Venegas, celebrated by son and daughter

Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care was proud to join Judy Murphy and Lew Venegas in honoring their mother, Reggie Venegas, as this year's 2009 Caring Mother.

The eldest of six children, Reggie was born in 1925 to Guadalupe Cota of Santa Barbara and Antonio Bisol of Treviso, Italy. Reggie met her husband, Lew Venegas, Sr. in 1940, and they married and started a family.

Reggie and Lew shared a life full of adventure – traveling throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico. Their lives were further enriched by family, friends and most of all, their grandchildren. Following a lengthy illness for which Reggie was his devoted caregiver, Lew, Sr. passed away in November 2004 at age 82.

Reggie is loved, adored, respected and cherished by family and friends throughout the community and an inspiration to everyone around her.

Special guests share their amazing stories

As Lynda Tanner commented, to truly know Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care you must know our patients, their families and the staff who care for them. This year, we were joined by 3 patients and their VNHC staff who were shining examples of the work we do.

Paula Hardwick, diagnosed with Hodgkin's disease in 1979, attended the luncheon with Mikki Andina, RN, who provides home health services for Paula. "She takes her time, offers comfort and I look forward to her visits because she gives me such relief," Paula said of her caregiver and friend.

Mikki Andina, RN and Paula Hardwick

Steve Yungling, who experienced our hospice program during his mother's final days following a long battle with cancer, was joined by his wife, Anne, and hospice nurse, Barbara Irvine, RN. "Even though we were facing the most difficult and challenging times you could ever imagine, even though it was very difficult to realize my mom wasn't going to make it to age 60, it provided tremendous support to have Barbara and her team there showing my mom compassion, support and love in her final moments," Steve told guests.

Naomi Uomini, an independent resident at Maravilla Senior Living who just turned 95, spoke as one of our personal care clients. She was joined by her caregiver, Maribel Gonzagui, who provides Naomi with some transportation assistance and companionship.

usual, longing for the companionship and affection her husband was once able to provide. Willing to try anything at this point to connect with him again, on any level, Rose decides to add something new to Jim's afternoon agenda – music therapy.

Days later, Rose eagerly answers a knock at the front door, welcoming Stefana Dadas, a board-certified music therapist with Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care, into her quaint Santa Barbara home. After a candid discussion about Jim's condition and history, Stefana pulls an acoustic guitar from its case and begins serenading him with the WWII classic, White Cliffs of Dover. Jim studies her fingers intently as they dance across the bronze strings. And then it happens. Something Rose hasn't seen her husband do in quite some time. Jim smiles.

Imagine not being able to remember your spouse's name, perhaps even your own name, but with little effort could hum note-for-note, a song your grandmother used to sing to you as a young child. Can you imagine the excitement, the relief, you might find in being able to identify with something from the past and for a brief moment, feel like you had some sense of who you are or where you came from?

People with Alzheimer's often lose the ability to speak or recognize loved ones as the disease progresses, but many retain the capacity to remember songs from long ago. It isn't suggested that music can reverse the effects of Alzheimer's, but studies have shown music therapy can complement other forms of treatment and offer substantial long-term health benefits and comfort.

Following the success of their initial session, Stefana developed a music therapy schedule with specific goals for Jim based on his condition and personal history. In the weeks that followed, he not only continued to smile, but actually began singing along with Stefana who shared dozens of songs she thought might spark some memory of days long forgotten. Jim's response to the therapy was remarkable and Rose found great respite in knowing her husband, at least for a few hours a week, was able to find joy and peace through music.

"While all of the hospice services are unbelievably marvelous, Stefana is among the best. It's the one time a week that Jim and I are able to connect and share memories through the music. It is the highlight of our week," said Mrs. Summers.

Through the generosity of local philanthropists Jack and Julie Nadel, Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care is able to offer music therapy to Jim as part of its ongoing hospice services. Jack and Julie started the Elly Nadel Music Therapy Program in 2008 as a tribute to Jack's late wife who benefited from the healing power of music during her battle with cancer.

"It's the one time a week that Jim and I are able to connect and share memories through the music. It is the highlight of our week."

"Bringing Elly's favorite music to her during those final days dramatically improved the quality of her life. We're thrilled the Elly Nadel Music Therapy Program will bring comfort and peace to hospice patients in their last days," said Mr. Nadel.

Stefana and VNHC's Elly Nadel Music Therapy Program serve dozens of patients who receive treatment on a regular basis. The program is of particular benefit to hospice patients, bringing relief from physical symptoms like pain or discomfort and reducing psychological symptoms like anxiety, depression, or isolation commonly associated with end-of-life. Stefana finds music therapy also of great benefit to family members and friends navigating the grief process.

Apple iPods are used in Music Therapy

Visiting Nurse & Hospice Care provides music therapy to hospice patients like Jim throughout Santa Barbara County including Santa Ynez and Lompoc Valleys. If you would like to learn more about the Elly Nadel Music Therapy Program, please

Hospice volunteers honored at exclusive Montecito party

VNHC board member and hospice volunteer, Nancy Kimsey, and her husband Bill, hosted this year's hospice volunteer party at their beautiful Montecito home. Set on a hill top with clear views overlooking the ocean on one side and the mountains on the other, it was a spectacular setting for a lovely reception to honor all of our dedicated hospice volunteers.

Among those receiving special awards were Phil Hons for "going above and beyond" in his support of our agency. For their "Years of Dedicated Service," special awards went to Muriel Ross for 30 years, Joe Jowell for 29 years, Ann Smithcors for 28 years, Janet Davis for 25 years and Delphine Dannemiller for 21 years.

We had a record attendance of 70 people, including many VNHC Board members and staff who were there to honor each hospice volunteer for their commitment to our wonderful organization.
